AMERICAN COIN SCALE.

TO COLLECTORS.

By far the greatest part of the fine Coins and Medals offered in the following pages is the property of an American, who made Russia his home during the last twenty years, holding there a position of trust, near the Imperial family. This position necessitated almost constant journeys from one end of this vast Empire to the other, and it was during these travels that were gathered, almost one by one, the many remarkable Coins and Medals now offered by him to the Collectors of his native land.

In the Russian Series, the Gold Coins have, as far as I know, never been offered collectively here, and rarely singly. The Silver Coins comprise many remarkable Roubles and Half Roubles rarely found in sales. The massive Silver Medals will appeal to the tastes of our most advanced Medal Collectors; and the material offered among Ancient Coins, to say nothing of a few remarkable specimens, is certainly very copious, so much so that a three or four days' sale would not have been incompatible with either the quality of the Coins offered or their aggregate number.

I take this opportunity of thanking Collectors in general for the constant, steady, and hearty support they have accorded to my Sales, especially during the season now closing.

Very respectfully,

ED. FROSSARD.

JAPANESE SWORD GUARDS.

A casual inquiry lately made in a Japanese Novelty Store elicited the fact that specimens like the following were held there at from $10 to $50, each, and found purchasers at these prices. The following were invoiced to me for absolute sale, and will be sold to the highest bidder without any reserve whatsoever, yet it may perhaps not be out of place to point out to the collectors who patronize coin sales that objects of such high artistic excellence, representing an art now almost lost in Japan, and holding a close relationship to medals, should certainly be more generally appreciated, and bring much higher prices than they have done—in coin sales. But it is a fact that many objects—I will only instance Netsukes, War decorations, Artistic medals, and Antiquities—generally bring much less in coin sales than if classified with objects other than coins.

FAMILY DENARII.

I respectfully call the attention of our advanced Collectors to the following beautiful Family or Consular Denarii, all selected specimens from a Collection by far the largest and finest of its kind in the United States. Contrary to the opinion lately published in the Tricentennial Sale Catalogue, none of the Coins of this Cabinet have ever been "destroyed in acids" or even "assured with Palmer's nitric dust." May I also be allowed to inquire if H. P. Smith can substantiate or prove the following statement found in the catalogue of his March 9th sale, page 4: "A counterfeited issue in this country (St. Bartholomew Medal of Pope Gregory XIII) brought in Fremont sale $14." A complete series of my Sales Catalogues is at the disposal of Smith.
